

SASKATCHEWAN RIVER CLAIMS SIX VICTIMS

BEFORE HUNDREDS OF SPECTATORS PLEASURE PARTY GO DOWN TO THEIR DEATHS

Gasoline Launch Strikes Boom and Upsets Close to Low Level Bridge

Seven Occupants Are Thrown Into Fast Rushing River—Roden C. Hooper and His Wife, Earl Meredith and His Wife, Mrs. E. J. Case and Boat's Engineer Lose Their Lives—Mr. Case Clings to Boat and Is Saved.

The grim, swiftly flowing Saskatchewan, which has already taken toll of several human lives this year, was responsible for the most terrible drowning tragedy in the city's history yesterday evening, when a forty horse-power gasoline launch struck a boom abutment about two or three hundred yards below the low level bridge, partly filled with water through a gaping rent in its right bow, and then capsized and precipitated the seven occupants into the raging torrent, only one escaping with his life.

Five of the six victims are well-known Edmonton people, three of them being ladies. They were Mr. Roden C. Hooper, a young man of twenty-four with the full promise of brilliant attainment before him, for over a year the able manager of the Marshall-Wells Alberta Company, Limited; and Earl Meredith, aged twenty-nine, wholesale superintendent of the same company, who were drowned in a plucky and vain endeavor to save the lives of their wives; Mrs. Case, wife of E. J. Case, accountant in charge of the west end branch of the Imperial Bank, a charming young lady of twenty-four; and Robert Patton, the engineer of the launch, a young mechanic of twenty years of age. Mr. Case, the husband of Mrs. Case, was able to cling to the upturned boat, and was finally saved by James Dunn, an employee of the Railway Dredging Company, who put off from the north bank in a row boat. He was the only one who was saved, although repeated attempts were made to rescue the others by Thos. T. Grady, the joint owner of the launch, and others.

Mrs. Hooper's age is given as twenty, and Mrs. Meredith's as twenty-nine. Mr. Case, who was saved, is twenty-eight.

WAS STRONG SWIMMER

Mr. Hooper is described as a terrifically strong swimmer, and it is believed that he sacrificed his life in a praiseworthy attempt to save the life of his young wife, whom he married only a year and a half ago. A pathetic part of the tragedy is that Mr. and Mrs. Meredith and Mr. and Mrs. Case are all newly married. Mr. and Mrs. Meredith being united only last week in Calgary, and Mr. and Mrs. Case but a short month ago. All the victims, except Robert Patton, the engineer, are related by marriage.

The tragedy descended upon the fair young lives of the victims with terrible suddenness. Only at seven o'clock, not two hours before they went to their doom, the principals of the merry little boating party had dinner together at the Cecil hotel. They had chatted gaily during the meal, the spirits of the newly-married couples, the wedding bells still ringing in their ears, being especially buoyant and care-free. There was not a cloud on the horizon. In the words of Byron, "eyes looked love to eyes," which spoke again, and all was merry as a marriage bell.

LITTLE THOUGHT OF FUTURE

Little they recked of the impending funeral knell and the awful silence of death. They reached the Government wharf near the low level bridge soon after eight o'clock, waited for the return of a party headed by Mr. Orono, a Hudson Bay engineer, and then all got into the launch and headed up stream, Robert Patton, a young mechanic, who is said to have had little experience in the running of motor boats, being in charge of the craft.

They reached a point opposite the brewery, and then decided to turn about and go down stream. Everything went well until they had got two or three hundred yards below the low level bridge, and then the launch struck an abutment of a boom, from some cause which has not yet been explained.

The scenes which followed have been described in detail elsewhere, and it is not necessary to repeat them here. The launch was struck on the right bow, and the result was that the launch was thrown overboard, and the occupants were thrown into the water. The launch was seen to be in a perilous position, and the occupants were seen to be in a state of panic. THE PROBLEM OF ADOLESCENCE.

The problem of how to hold the interest and intelligently mould the character of the adolescent child is becoming and must yet become more of a vital problem to the Christian Church of this continent. When a boy or girl is no longer a child, they cannot be treated as such, or ruled as a child. Since they are not yet a fully matured man or woman, they cannot be treated as such, or ruled as a child. Since they are not yet a fully matured man or woman, they cannot be treated as such, or ruled as a child.

For generations the church has tried this from a religious standpoint, and has failed, as shown by statistics that seventy-five per cent. of the children who come up out of the junior grades of the Sunday school and pass through their teens, never have any connection with the school life.

If the Christian Church is to fulfill its great commission, this problem must not continue. There must be a remedy, and the remedy is varied, yet there are common principles underlying both cause and remedy. It is the business of those who constitute the working forces of the church to study the cause, and apply the remedy to help in the solving of this vexatious problem of how to safely guide the bark of life over the stormy seas of childhood and adolescence. The Sunday School Association called to their attention a man who has made a life study of the problem under the most able leaders in the American continent, and by experience is qualified to render expert advice in the formation and carrying out of adequate policies and plans which will solve the problem of holding the adolescent boy and girl for Christ and the church. This man, Mr. Hugh C. Legan, superintendent of the second year division of the Alberta Sunday School Association, will be in Edmonton tonight (Friday), and will address church workers with teen-age boys and girls and all who are interested in the work, under the auspices of the Edmonton Religious Education Association in Grace Methodist Church at eight o'clock.

This will be the first of a series of eight or ten meetings for this purpose. Mr. Legan is well worth hearing, and his address will be given to ask questions relative to the work. The meetings at which, Legan will speak will be as follows:
Sunday, June 29, 11 a.m.—Knox Church, South Side.
Monday, June 30, 8 p.m.—McDonnell Church.

Wednesday, July 2, 8 p.m.—Westminster Church.
Thursday, July 3, 8 p.m.—First Baptist Church, South Side.
Sunday, July 6, 11 a.m.—Highland Church.

The last fire number was 1212, but owing to the great demand for telephone numbers, the fire department has decided to change the number. The new number will be permanent. Cards are being distributed with the new telephone numbers giving the new number in big red figures. These cards should be placed directly above telephone units and are accompanied with the fire call.

GOOD PASTURE AT NORTH EDMONTON.

The soil at North Edmonton is fertile. The showers of the past few weeks have caused the ground of the vacant lots to be covered with a growth of grass much to the delight of the herds of cattle and horses that graze in the vicinity of the city. The rain has also fallen on the hills and the cattle and a little later when the summer sun begins to dry up the grass the wondering horses and cattle will be able to enjoy the products of the vegetable garden.

A number of residents of North Edmonton, especially those who have poor farms around their city, are desirous that the Pound by Law be made to include this corner of the city.

The school board will have to pay rent for the barns, and if it is necessary to make any alterations in the buildings the board will have to stand the expense.
